QUESTION ONE (30 MARKS)

Read the extract below and answer the questions that follow:

Social media has been characterized as an innovative societal framework for young people. As such the youth have embraced social media platforms and made them part of their daily lives. According to Hilliard (2019), Social media use among adolescents is virtually worldwide at present. Hilliard opines that roughly 92% of adolescent users of social media acknowledge checking social networking sites more than once a day. In that respect, use of Facebook takes the lead among the top three social media platforms mostly used by the youth world-over at 71%. Instagram follows suit at 52%, while Snapchat stands at 41%. Research has shown that social media has some influence on substance abuse among the youth. Indeed, it has been established that the youth use their favorite social media platforms to converse on matters drugs. Kazemi et, al. (2017) affirm that the youth habitually discuss substance use on informal social networks. In that respect, other studies have established that the youth who access and use social media regularly have a higher chance of engaging in substance abuse than those who have little access to social media or don't use it completely. For instance, Hilliard cites a study conducted by the National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University in 2011 that established that youths who frequently used popular social media channels were more likely to partake in substance abuse than their fellows who either did not use social media or used it less frequently. Studies have shown that social media portrays use of drugs and alcohol as fun. It therefore follows that any youth who oftentimes logs into these platforms could be easily tempted to partake in substance abuse since it is portrayed as a normal undertaking. The youth, being adventurous could also be susceptible to online illegal drugs. In fact, research has shown that through social media platforms, the young adults can easily use coded messages to connect with drug dealers without any suspicion from law enforcers or even their guardians.
